FI EMS YOUNG SCIENTIST RETREAT

After a great first Young Scientist Retreat in August 2022 in Dannenfels, the Flagship Initiative Engineering Molecular Systems (FI EMS) invites again all PhDs and PostDocs working in the field of EMS to the next retreat in Trifels. The FI was setup to promote the new research field of EMS at Heidelberg University including the support of young academics. Since the EMS requires collaborations between many disciplines such as chemistry, physics, informatics, mathematics, material science, biology and medicine, one major task and instrument of the Flagship Initiative is networking between people of different disciplines. This is especially important for young academics. To grow your network and to get inspired by other research and ideas, we offer to all PhDs and PostDocs working in the field of EMS at Heidelberg University and its partner institutions EMBL, DKFZ, HITS and MPIImR a retreat where you can present your work and get to know new people from other research groups or meet the people from the first retreat. It will take place November 24th-26th 2022 at the Jugendstilhotel in Trifels. There will be a scientific program with talks and posters as well as some time for social activities. Please register latest by October 10th 2022. Since we have limited spots, we will run a selection process based on your submitted abstract and the number of applicants from the same research group. There are two retreats per year, thus people who were not considered last time have priority this time, but everyone is welcome to apply.
